ABOUT

Jennifer Milius

STORYTELLER & PEOPLE WHISPERER

Jen Milius is a storyteller and people whisperer, which means she's an author, motivational speaker, and leadership coach. Her passion is helping motivated professionals and entrepreneurs to go from questioning their next steps and doubting their abilities to transforming into the confident business leaders they are meant to be by breaking through the noise and turning an idea into reality, one step at a time.

Jen's corporate career path of over 20 years has involved intense management skills such as public relations, project management, organization development and continuous improvement, all of which leveraged her undergraduate degree in Communications and Masters in Business Administration. As a speaker and coach, Jen believes that each of us have something special to offer, but sometimes it takes a leap of faith to be willing to share that gift. When people are doing what they love, there is a joy that they radiate. For Jen, starting her business has enabled her to do what she encouraged fellow co-workers to do in a broader way – follow their passion and let their lights shine brightly.

ABOUT

Jennifer Milius

MOTIVATIONAL SPEAKER

In addition to coaching and writing, Jen is a motivational speaker. Jen believes that when people are doing what they love, there is a joy that they radiate. These individuals feel empowered and are more productive; their joy comes through in their personal lives as well as in business. It is her goal to communicate how individuals can make a positive difference and overcome the fear of the unknown. Other speaking topics include all things leadership development, dealing with change, entrepreneurship, military spouse, the love of animals, and writing.
